

Taylor Beck: Public Affairs Consultant

Role: Grant Development, Funding Needs Analysis, Strategic Grant Planning

Taylor Beck is a highly successful Public Affairs Consultant at Langton, fostering a deep appreciation of art and culture paired with an unwavering dedication to community enhancement through adept grant management. As a Florida State University graduate, Taylor earned her Bachelor of Arts in Humanities in 2014 and embarked on her career in art-based non-profits, where she honed her initial grant-writing skills.

Since her integration into the Langton team, Taylor has significantly enhanced her expertise, emerging as an indispensable figure of our Grant Development Team. Her involvement across a broad spectrum of federal and state programs has culminated in the successful acquisition of over $150 million for clients. Notably, she played a key role in procuring more than $63 million for Osceola County NeoCity as part of the Build Back Better Regional Challenge Phase 2 Grant program, contributing to vital initiatives within the semiconductor advanced packaging sector. Taylor's continued efforts contribute significantly to the expansion of the NeoCity Technology District in Osceola County by securing the largest Florida Commerce Job Growth Grant award in the program's history, amounting to $17.5 million for the NeoCity Multi-Use Lab Facilities.

Taylor's efforts have also extended to improving broadband access throughout Florida, securing upwards of $25 million for the Florida Electric Cooperative. Another significant accomplishment includes obtaining a $19.9 million grant for the rural City of Arcadia, facilitating the Wastewater Treatment Plant Replacement Phase 1.

Taylor utilizes her experience assisting clients strategically grant plan and develop applications spanning various sectors, such as Mental Health, Police Services, Advanced Manufacturing, Resiliency, Broadband, Economic Development, Housing, Community Development, Complete Streets, Mitigation, and AI-Technology showcasing her versatility and commitment to fostering growth and development across multiple domains.
