Alexis Beck joined Langton Consulting in July of 2025, bringing with her a refined skill set in research, writing, and organizational management. With a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology and a Minor in History from the University of North Florida, where she graduated with honors, Alexis developed a keen eye for analysis and detail through her work in the university's Archaeology Department.

At Langton Consulting, Alexis's versatility and initiative enhance both the firm's administrative operations and its grant development efforts. She provides essential support to the Grants Division, contributing research, drafting, and coordination expertise to a range of projects, including a Resilient Florida grant, two Hazard Mitigation Grant Program (HMGP) applications, and other state and local funding initiatives. In addition, Alexis manages a historic downtown property, ensuring seamless operations and tenant relations through her proactive communication and problem-solving skills.

Recognized for her professionalism, adaptability, and precision, Alexis combines analytical insight with a strong commitment to efficiency and collaboration. Her ability to balance strategic research with practical execution makes her a key contributor to Langton Consulting's mission of helping communities secure the resources needed for long-term resilience and growth
